

Each time step: agents propose water-use actions; institutional rules validate proposals against physical and policy constraints; the simulation executes validated actions and returns updated environmental signals.